WANTED A DRINK.

A Rustic Visitor Tackles the Mayor--Personal Mention.

Correspondence of the Telegram

High Point, July 13.—A letter received from Danville says that the people will gladly welcome us on our annual excursion to their city next Tuesday. There will be plenty of comfortable seats situated in the park, good drinking water in reach and plenty of shelter in case of rain. Get aboard Tuesday and enjoy yourself.

We call attention to the advertisement, in this paper, of the High Point Steam Laundry, which has recently located here. Their plant is one of the best and satisfaction is guaranteed. Don't send your laundry to other towns, but patronize home enterprise by giving them your patronage.

Harp. Bond stopped off here yesterday on his way to Salisbury, where he goes to do some work. Mr. Bond has just finished one of the largest signs in the South for the Globe furniture factory.

Miss Louise Rankin, one of Rockingham's accomplished young ladies, who bas been visiting her brother, Mr. Wade Rankin, left yesterday for Greensboro.

Miss Mattie Tate was at home to a party of friends last evening. All enjoyed themselves and have nice things to say about the charming hostess.

Register tomorrow without fail and help save the day.

His Honor, Mayor J. J. Cox, had quite an amusing experience last night. He was standing on the street when a fellow, evidently from the backwoods, approached him in a "confidential" way and articulated: "Say, Mister, do you know where I can get a drink of liquor?" Mr. Cox, good naturedly, told him that he did not, whereupon the fellow kept up his questioning. As a last resort the Doctor made himself known by telling the fellow that he wished he did—that he would make it hot for 'em. The "boys" have had a great deal of fun teasing Mayor Cox.

Two Boys Drowned at Davidson College.

Special Correspondence of the Telegram.

Charlotte, July 13.—Sad news has been received here of the drowning of two Davidson College students late yesterday afternoon at River View, near Davidson. A picnic was being given by the Presbyterian church, and as the evening wore on a number of the young men decided to go bathing. While in the water one of the young men called out for help, then another, Fred Hobbs also seemed to give way entirely while out in the water. David Yonan, a native Persian, who had just left the water, started back to Hobbs' assistance, but Yonan himself was seen to lose control of his movements. He was called to return, but kept bravely oni when suddenly he threw up his hands and sank to rise no more, having given his life for his friend. Young Hobbs also went under and was drowned. Yonan was one of the best athletes at the college.

Hobbs' home was at Davidson.

The time of the funeral is not yet known, but will likely take place today.

In The Police Court.

Only two cases occupied the attention of the Police Court yesterday afternoon. Carl Dick, colored, was bound over to the Superior Court on a warrant charging him with assault and battery. For assaulting a female friend Jennie Albright was fined $5.

Can a white man afford to be careless or indifferent, and fail to register?

BOERS DEFEAT BRITISH.

They Turn Upon the Enemy, Take Nitral's Neck and Capture the Scots Greys and Part of the Lincolnshires—Heavy British Losses.

London, July 12.--Lord Roberts reports to the War Office, under date of Pretoria, July 12th, as follows:

"The enemy having failed in their attack upon our right rear, as mentioned in my telegram of July 9th, made a determined attack upon right flank yesterday, and, I regret to say, succeeded in capturing Nitral's Nek, which was garrisoned by a squadron of the Scots Greys, with two guns of a battery of the Royal Artillery, and five companies of the Lincolnshire Regiment. The enemy attacked in superior numbers at dawn, and seizing the hills commanding the nek, brought a heavy gun fire to bear upon the small garrison.

"Nitral's Nek is about 18 miles from here, near where the road crosses the Crocodile river. It was held by us in order to maintain road and telegraphic communication with Rustenburg. The fighting lasted, more or less, throughout the day, and immediately on receiving information, early this morning of the enemy's strength, I dispatched re-enforcements from here under Colonel Godfrey, of the King's Own Scottish Borderers. Before, however, they reached the spot the garrison had been overpowered and the guns and the greater part of the squadron of the Greys had been captured, owing to the horses being shot; also about 90 men of the Lincolnshire Regiment.

"A list of the casualties has not been received, but I fear they are heavy. Simultaneously an attack was made on our outposts near Durdepoort, north of the town in which the Seventh Dragoons were engaged. The regiment was handled with considerable skill by Lieutenant Colonel Low, and kept the enemy in check until they retired on their supports, and would probably have suffered but slight loss had not our troops mistaken some Boers in the bushes for our men.

"Smith-Dorrien had a successful engagement with the enemy yesterday near Krugersdorp, and inflicted heavy loss on them. Buller reports that the Boers who were destroying his line of railway near Paardekraal were driven off yesterday, after a short action. Hart reports from Heidelburg that the surrendering of Boer arms and ammunition continues in that district."

New Republican Committee.

By Wire to the Telegram.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 13.—The new Republican National Committee will be made up of the following persons: Mark Hanna, chairman; Heath, Bliss, Payne, Manly, Kerons, Cramer, Stuart, Scott, New, Gibbs, Herrick and Murphy. N. J. Bliss will be treasurer.

A Robber Shot.

By Wire to the Telegram.

St. Louis, July 13.—Two robbers, who arrived in this city on an Illinois Central train this morning, were run down in the streets. One was caught, though the other escaped. His body is supposed to have been filled with bullets, as eight policemen emptied their revolvers at him.

NOTHING SINCE JUNE THE 27TH

GREAT UNEASINESS AT WASHINGTON.

Reports of the Past Several Days Bearing Pekin and Shanghai Dates Were Made of the Whole Cloth—Goodnow Wires That Chinese Were Preparing for the Final Attack on the 7th, and a Dispatch, Claimed to be Official, Says That all Foreigners Were Massacred on the 6th—The Number Believed to Have Been Killed in Pekin is 1865.

By Wire to the Telegram.

Washington, July 13.—Consul General Goodnow wires that the Boxers and soldiers, as wired by the Government from Shantung, were bombarding the Pekin legations for final attack upon July 7. He is extremely anxious for the safety of the ministers and "our Chinese friends" in Pekin. The consul adds that the worst fears are generally entertained.

He also says, what has been suspected for some time, that all messages since June 27 are doubtful, This statement fits well with the suspicion entertained by the government for several days past that the telegrams bearing Pekin and Shanghai dates were made up of the whole cloth. The government has placed no faith in the Shanghai news obtained from native sources, but was encouraged over the reports that the American minister and those under his care were holding out with the other foreigners in the British legation, but admission is now being made that these reports were not trustworthy. The government is not concealing its fears that the worst has happened at Pekin.

FOREIGNERS EXECUTED JULY 6.

London, July 13.—An official telegram received in London this morning from Pekin states that all foreigners in the Chinese capital were excuted July 6th. The telegram eminated from Chinese official sources.

The foreigners massacred in Pekin are believed to be as follows: Foreign ministers and attaches 75, legation guards 425, missionaries, students and teachers 700, employes of the imperial customs 40, foreign merchants 125, transient visitors 500. Total 1,865.

Lord Salisbury presided at a meeting of the cabinet this afternoon at which important decisions in regard to China were reached. Another division consisting of four British and four Indian regiments with compliments of artillery has been orded to service in China from Simla.

ALLIES IN DESPERATION.

Chefoo, July 13—The allied troops are in a desperate situation at Tien-Tsin. They are preparing to retreat but may not be able to safely get away from the town. The Chinese are giving them no rest and they are becoming exhausted by the conflict. The troops are fighting night and day. The Chinese are pounding them without ceasing, and they are liable to be worn out.

MR. WU WILL REACH CONGER.

Washington, July 13.—Secretary Hay yesterday handed the Chinese minister a test message addressed to Minister Conger. Mr. Wu undertakes to deliver it to Pekin. Mr. Wu assured the government that the edict given to them by him was undoubtedly genuine.

To Blow Up the French Palace.

By Wire to the Telegram.

Paris, July 13.—It is reported that there was a serious attempt to destroy the Grand Palace on the Champs Elysees on Wednesday last. Conversation between two men led a watchman to believe that they were conspiring to blow up the building. Two cans of powder were afterwards found.

Attempted to Wreck a Train.

By Wire to the Telegram.

Berdentown, N. J., July 13—Attempt was made by some persons to ditch a train on the Amboy Division of the Pennsylvania railroad near East Burlington early this morning. A tie was placed on the track, but fortunately the engineer discovered it in time to avoid an accident.

Gnawing Our Last Bone.

Wilmington Messenger.

Judge Robinson, of Goldsboro, lately said to Solicitor Shaw, and with an evident lingering recollection of good things gone forever: "Fix to take care of yourself, Moses, we are now gnawing our last bone."

ON TO PEKIN IS THE POLICY.

Our Government at Last Roused to Determined Effort--Will Rescue Minister Conger if He is Yet Alive.

Washington, July 12—"On to Pekin," is the policy adopted by our government. It is said that regardless of the issues raised as to the authenticity of the late Chinese note, or the accuracy of its statement, of fact, or the question raised as to the responsibility for the present situation, our government at least is determined not to relax its efforts to reach Pekin to get in touch with Mr. Conger, if he is alive, to take the necessary steps for the protection of American interests and in fact to do all those things set out in Secretary Hay's note to the Powers, including a reckoning with the person or persons responsible for the outrageous events of the past six weeks.

Twenty-four hours' consideration of the Chinese note leaves the officials here convinced that it marks the beginning of a general effort on the part of the Chinese officials to relieve themselves from responsibility for the treatment of the foreign ministers and the fighting at Tien-Tsin.

The news from Tien-Tsin of the unsatisfactory relations between the allied forces go to confirm the war department officials here, in their original conviction that two or three brigades of American troops, veterans of the Indian wars; of the Cuban campaign and of the Philippine jungle hunts could have achieved some valuable results by this time had they been at Tien-Tsin.

Colonel Liscum's orders are broadly framed, and it said at the war department, that while he retains command of his own men under all circumstances, he may cooperate to any extent with the allied forces.

CHARLOTTE'S MILL BUSINESS.

Not Only Doing Her Own Construction But Doing a Large Work in the South.

Charlotte, July 13.—While Charlotte is building her own cotton mills, she is at the same time doing an enormous work in textile lines for outside places. A gentleman who is connected with a textile house here says that ninety per cent. of the mills being furnished now in the South are receiving their equipments from Charlotte. On the other hand in the mill designing line there are about seven houses in Charlotte which about equally divide the work in this line with the New England mill architects.

A colored girl, Frances Johnson, yesterday stole two diamond rings from Mrs. J. A. Gorham, who lives with Mrs. Shober. The police found a negro man, Frank Johnson, who produced the rings, evidently getting them from the girl while in hiding. Mrs. Gorham will not prosecute the negro girl who took the rings.

A new case of smallpox, that of Milas Hunter, colored, has just been discovered here. The negroes tried to keep the patient in hiding, but as soon as the case was discovered they were very versatile about the affair. The negro will be carried to the pest house.

How the Officers May be Assisted.

Within the past few days much complaint has been heard from various persons as to the sanitary condition of the city. If, instead of publishing the matter to the world, persons knowing of places needing attention will report to the officers the same will be appreciated and will prove more effective in remedying the evil.

The chief of police is anxious for the citizens to aid him and the other officers in enforcing the sanitary ordinance and will appreciate auy assistance rendered along this line.

To Fight in the Philippines.

Alfred S. Mason, of Knoxville, Tenn.; Robert L. Johnson, Salisbury; Robert S. Harris, Gold Hill; John A. Dunn, Raleigh, and James S. Harris, Davidson. The first two were among the Southern Railway telegraph operators who recently went on a strike.

John L. Stevens, of Reidsville, has also enlisted for service in the Philippines and will leave tomorrow.

JUMPED THE GAME.

Republican Candidates Failed to Meet the Democratic Speakers Yesterday.

At Pleasant Garden yesterday afternoon the Democratic candidates had things their own way. Mr. Woods was the only Republican legislative candidate present, and he did not make a speech, contenting himself with the mere announcement of his candidacy and saying that he was opposed to the amendment and election law. He did not even give his reasons for his opposition to these measures.

Mr. J. C. Meekins, who lost a few votes for the Republican ticket in Sumner township the day before, went down to represent Mr. Starbuck, but after reaching Pleasant Garden and looking over the situation he decided not to speak.

The Democratic candidates made a fine impression and strengthened their cause A good crowd of Democratic and Republican voters was present, and the speakers were listened to with close attention The Democrats of this section are enthusiastic, and as is their custom, will do their duty on election day.

After the candidates had concluded Solicitor Brooks addressed the crowd, making a splendid speech. An old-line Republican was heard to remark, "That fellow Brooks is doing some mighty good preaching."

Today the candidates are at Woody's Mill.

Another Letter From Mr. McCulloch.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

You are mistaken in one supposition. I have spent very little of my life working for prohibition and of course have accomplished very little as you say. Most of my life, I regret to say, I have lived in comparative indifference to the fearful ravages of drink. I would that I could atone for my past inactivity, but I cannot. Feeling thus, shall I relapse into inactivity again? I cannot favor saloons. I cannot favor the dispensary. I must either do nothing or oppose both, and I feel that I must not do nothing.

I have never said that the dispensary is not a better thing in itself than saloons. But the institution is to be considered together with the means by which it is maintained. A "well regulated" liquor business maintained by church members is intolerable to me as an ill-regulated liquor business conducted by saloon-keepers. The morals of a community are affected by its churches as well as by its liquor houses. No one would contend that the dispensary is a positive moral force for good. All admit that it is a positive moral force for evil, and the only contention of its advocates is that it does less harm than the saloons. But by the side of the diminished power for evil in the drink traffic must be placed the diminished power for good in the churches and church members that give their positive consent to the existence of the liquor traffic by supporting the dispensary.

Thanking you for publishing communication advocating a policy that seems to you so impracticable, I am

Respectfully yours,
J. F. McCULLOCH.

The Winston Outrage.

The farce of trying a Democratic registrar in Winston on a charge of refusing to register negroes is still in progress. The United States commissioner who is conducting this travesty on justice has taken charge of the registration book and will bind the defendant over to the Federal court on the evidence of several negroes. The white people of Winston are much wrought up over this Federal interference with a local affair and will not fail to register their condemnation at the polls in August. The occurrence has increased the chance of Democratic success in Forsyth county.

When the Victors Return.

The Southside Hose Company will return from Wilmington tomorrow afternoon, reaching here at 4 o'clock. The boys will bring with them the championship belt, which they have won twice in succession, and will be given a warm reception. They will be met at the depot by the other companies of the fire department, the Gate City Band and a crowd of enthusiastic admirers. The friends of the company are invited to turn out and assist in giving the boys an ovation.

THOMPSON'S STULTIFICATION.

GOES BACK ON HIS FORMER WORDS.

Percy of Dominica Being Tried for Causing a Woman to Starve Herself to Death. Butler's Latest Letter Trick—A Toad Poisons a Man by Means of a Black Snake.

Special Correspondence to the Telegram.

Raleigh, July 13.—Dr. Cyrus Thompson, populist nominee for governor, returned here last evening from a campaign tour. When asked how he was getting on he replied: "I have never had better audiences since I left the Democratic party. I am making good speeches. The people areagainst the constitutional amendment and for me for governor. If there is a fair election we will defeat the amendment by 60,000 majority." One could but smile at hearing Dr. Thompson say these words and recall the fact that exactly 20 months ago he told your correspondent in the plainest words, that "the white people of North Carolina would be disappointed if the negro is not eliminated from politics."

The appointment of James E. Boyd to be judge of the Western N. C. Federal District gives particular pleasure to the Republicans here, who were always of the opinion that he or Senator Pritchard would be given the position. Of course Senator Pritchard could havehad it ata word, but hesaid he considered it his duty to serve out his term in the senate.

The trial of the negro fanatic "Percy of Dominica," at Wilmington, calls forth attention to negro credulity and superstition. This fellow, who hails from the West Indies, posed as a god, caused himself to be worshipped as such, and had a band of devotees who would starve at his bidding. One died by his orders, and it is for her death that he is being tried. This is even worse than the "sanctification" craze among the blacks.

Senator Butler is this week sending out thousands of confidential circulars in which he alleges that the form of oath in the election law does not conform to that in the constitution, and calls on Populists to demand that the latter oath be administered to them. This is what he also said in his newspaper last week.

There is among the farmers here a very earnest desire for rain. Crops are suffering on uplands. Gardens are injured and grass fast losing its greenness.

It is the hope of the cranks here that Raleigh will this week win a game of baseball from Tarboro. It is a task indeed, for the Tarboro team is the first that ever toured the State. Raleigh and Durham are now a tie for second place. Raleigh's official umpire is Elvin Fleming.

A little over two weeks ago a black snake bit curator Brimberg of the State Museum. The bites have become sores in the past day or two and the hand is swollen. The black snake has no poison and Mr. Brimberg thinks this poison came from a toad which this snake had had in its mouth. There are poison glands in the skin of toads. Ordinarily the bites of black snakes, king snakes, water moccasins, &c., give no trouble. By water moccasin is meant the ordinary sort. There is a species, the cotton-mouth, found in the eastern counties, and by many people they are called the "samp lion," which is not only very deadly but savage as well, and attacks people fearlessly.

My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides; no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. ANOTHER REPUBLICAN OUT OF LINE

Says he Will Rejoice When Negro Dominion is Wiped Out, and the Government is Once Again a Pure White Man's Government.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

If you will give me space in your esteemed daily I will give your readers our views in regard to the State amendment that is to be voted on the first Thursday in August. The writer is an old line Republican, having voted that ticket for the last quarter of a century, but during that great length of time we have always been opposed to negro suffrage, for we did not think it was right and we stand on the same platform that we did in the campaign of 1898. Some six weeks before the November election of that year in a communication to the Telegram we defined our position in regard to negro dominion in North Carolina and made the prediction that the old line Republicans through the State would join issues with the Democratic party and wipe it out. Our prediction was fully verified by an overwhelming majority for white supremacy, and we again predict that a large majority of the old line Republicans in the coming election will join issues with the Democratic party for the overthrow of negro suffrage and dominion. They have come fully to the conclusion that there is too much negro in the wood pile and will go hand in hand with the Democratic party to chase him out, and as far as possible erase the foul stigma that has been perpetrated upon the white race of the south, by the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments of the Constitution of the United States.

It is not our purpose in this article to make an attact on the great fundamental law of our land for we hold it as sacred as any other American patriot. We would feel no less guilty in making an onslaught on the divine revelations which should be held sacred to christianity throughout christian civilation, but we unsparingly lash and denounce Congress and unhesitatingly say this act was unwanted and brings shame and disgrace on the names of those great and noble patriots that framed that instrument and handed it down to the Anglo-Saxon race as the guardian of our sacred liberties, and should never have been recorded on the pages of that great instrument as one of the fundamental laws of our land. We often have thought that if it was possible for the immortal Washington to rise from his tomb and came back to this mundane sphere and make a visit to our legislatures and the halls of Congress and behold the humiliating spectale of the African race occupying a seat there making laws for a white man's government, we think he would bow his head in shame and fall back in his grave and call for the rocks and hills to hide him from the face of this great republic. God bless the sacred name of Washington and his grand army of patriots and the glorious stars and stripes that waved over them, a banner that has never trailed the dust of dishonor, every American patriot can sit under its folds and smoke the pipe of peace and no one dare molest.

When Lord Cornwallis surrendered to George Washington at Yorktown it was then and there that this glorious independence and precious liberties we enjoy was established by the Anglo-Saxon race and should be perpetuated for all time to come as a white man's government. While it is true this government cannot exist without two political parties, in the name of all that is dear to our sacred liberties and the ties that bind us to our common country and the great institutions we live under, let the white man stand upon the parapet wall as sentry with the stars and stripes waving over him, plighting his sacred word and honor, he will defend it from negro suffrage and dominion so long as it waves over a white man's government.

We predict that the day is not far distant when every vistage of negro suffrage and dominion will be forever wiped out. When that day shall come a new era will dawn upon the white men of North Carolina. It will be then the white men of both political parties can march to the polls untrammeled under one flag, meet face to face and cast his ballot and no black cloud to overshadow the ballot box, and when the ballot is over and the result known whatever political party may triumph, we will rejoice to know that the destinies of our great commonwealth is in the hands of the white man and forever thereafter the door will be tightly barred and no descendant of the African race need apply.

SKETCHES OF MANILA

A STRANGE CITY AND ITS PECULIAR CUSTOMS.

Ancient Enough to Be Romantic and Modern Enough to Be Fairly Comfortable—The Climate and the Amusements—No Frosts.

There is one industry which most of the books on the Philippines have omitted and that is stage driving. One horse, having a wreck of harness with rope lines, pulls each two-wheeled cart used to carry passengers. It only costs three centavos—that is, 3 cents in Mexican money—for a ride from Pasay into the very heart of Manila. These vehicles come in from every direction in the morinng, and at night they go back again.

Early in the day they bring in market women and men with their flat baskets of fruits, vegetables and fish. Sometimes one of the patrons carries a load of sucking pigs, and the freight protests in loud squeals all the way to market. One wagon that daily comes down Calle Real has loose spokes and the wheel is re-enforced in a native way by bamboos bent around the hub to the felloes. It has been a question as to how long the wheel will last, but the vehicle always has plenty of passengers.

The equipages are open to the sun and rain, but if the woman passenger has her umbrella she cares little what comes. Passengers of both sexes smoke cigars and cigarettes and sit independently erect. If the stage is crowded it does not stop and when it does as like as not the horse balks and balks into the curb or fence, and the driver is compelled to alight and lead his animal for some distance until the little beast makes up his mind to go. Sometimes there is a collision between two passenger carts, and all go down in a heap, laughing among the vegetables or other market stores.

Here in Manila they make your chocolate while you wait. Right into the house a Chinaman comes with his basket and rolls the crushed cocoa bean and sugar, and then makes a supply of chocolate that is sweeter and more palatable and cheaper than the commercial brand sold in the American stores.

When the Chinaman comes he lays aside his hat and shirt, and, stripped to the waist and barefooted, he begins his work. In the basket is the chocolate or cocoa bean, from which the rancid oil has been extracted, and which oil long ago has anointed the hair of some Filipino belle or lighted some Filipino home. The beans first come on the boards bitter and brackish. With a rolling pin the Chinaman grinds them into a fine powder. This takes time. When it is done he opens another basket and dips out the sugar for the sweetening and the final mixture. The sugar is what would probably grade "coffee C" if it were in commercial circles. Like the bean, it grows on the island. Industriously the Chinaman rubs, and gradually the chocolate forms on the bottom of the board and drips off in sticky sweetness into the basket beneath. The family gathers about to sample the product and the Chinaman stops to smoke a cigarette while judgment is being passed. Cups of the beverage are handed around and all "taste:" If it is not sweet enough the manufacturer throws more sugar on his board and drops in another pinch of vanila and cinnamon for the flavoring. When it is "right" he goes to work and for several hours rubs away at his task. The deposit below the rolling pin is a brown substance that is soft and moist, while above it is to all appearances a dry powder and sugar. The little ones gather about, and if there is an older daughter perhaps she sits down on the floor in front of the Chinaman and watches the growing pile.

Such was the case in the house of a Spaniard when I called recently. The young lady sat there and idly watched the manufacture of the edible, and when a little brother came she took his head in her lap and he lay there with her watching the brown-skinned Chinaman rub and rub the sugar into the other ingredients. It was insisted that I should sample the finished article, and I found it very good.

The chocolate before it is chocolate is cacao bean, and the cacao bean is a speculative crop at best. First, it takes four years to raise a crop. The plants grow only ten feet in height. They are subject to insect attacks, and when the fruit is nearly ripe and ready to pick a windstorm may come along and break it from the tree. As long ago as the seventeenth century the work of raising cacao began in the Philippines. Then priests brought the bean here from Mexico. In Mexico the tree grows twenty-five or thirty feet tall and the crop is not always an uncertain quantity. Here, however, only those planters who can afford to lose a crop oftener than they harvest raise the cacao bean.

The fourth year the fruit comes, and when ripe it is filled with seeds that are not unlike almonds in shape, growing in a pulp like the seeds of a watermelon. These seeds are separated from the pulp by hand and dried in the sun; then the shell is taken off and the bean is further dried. Then it is ground into powder and the oil extracted.

Within the radius of a few days' journey from Manila there is a wonderful variety of tropical native life, ranging from half-civilization and barbarism down to absolute savagery. Certainly there are brigands and pirates, if one would search for them, and wild men, among the islands of the Philippines, into whose country Spain has not yet penetrated, though she has claimed possession these 350 years. There are many natural marvels, too, in forests, streams, mountains, lakes, volcanoes, boiling springs, and vast agricultural and mineral wealth that is waiting to be developed.

Manila is ancient enough to be romantic, modern enough to be comfortable and strange enough to be interesting. In the same crowd on the Calajala, where the citizens promenade after the heat of the day, one sees a barefooted Spanish friar, with tonsure, telling his beads as he moves slowly along with downcast eyes, and an Englishman on a bicycle, with a bag of golf clubs over his shoulder, off for "once over the course before dinner." In the streets one sees the dashing turnouts of the officials, with their liveried footmen; the rude carts, drawn by water buffao, and that Yankee-Japanese production, the jin-riki-sha, which is now all over the Far East. The dress of the people is as varied, also, from uniforms of white and gold to the breechclout of the native.

With all its picturesqueness, however, tourists have not visited Manila in great numbers, and in this it differs from nearly every other port of the Far East. Spanish red tape is responsible for this. Had the government of the Philippines recognized that globe-trotters are an excellent advertising medium and encouraged tourists, it would have done well and brought much money to the islands. Instead of this, it discouraged visitors by treating all comers with suspicion.

There are some 6,000 Europeans in Manila and other ports of the Philippines, but by far the majority live in the capital. The Chinese are many times as numerous, some estimates putting them as high as 400,000. The middleman in the sugar business is almost always a Chinese. He arranges between the Spanish or half-caste planter and the English exporter. He speaks pidgin English—"business" English, the Volapuk of the Far East—besides Spanish and several Chinese dialects.

Next in number among foreigners, after the Spaniards, are the English and Germans. There are other nationalities represented, too—almost all, in fact. Trade, however, is in English hands. Time and again American firms have disappeared, only to reappear as English firms. This has been because England takes care of the interests of her subjects and protects them against harassment.

Spain annoyed American firms with impunity so long as they roused nothing more serious than the protests of the United States Consul; but when the British Consul began to speak, as he always spoke, on behalf of British firms, Spain was humble and helpful. So long as Spain was in control there was little opportunity for Americans in the Philippines. The Spaniard there has always regarded Americans as so many oranges, out of which he could squeeze the juice with ease and perfect safety. The signs of the times indicate a change in this condition of affairs.

Outside of the Spanish colony in Manila there is little care for the fashions, as they change from season to season in Europe and America. The same material and cut does in summer and winter—or, more accurately, in the wet season and in the dry. There is never any frost and never occasion for furnaces or open fires. Except for cooking, there is plenty of heat in the atmosphere the year around.

Men wear white duck suits, with thin flannel or silk underwear, no linen shirt or collar, white pith helmets and white canvas shoes the year round. The Spaniards and the Spanish half-castes go in for style a little more. The Spaniards are haughty and fond of displaying their uniforms of blue or white and their gold trimmings. The half-castes, or Mestiza, are equally fond of display, but their attire is something of a compromise between European and Chinese modes.

Besides the one year out of seven that all foreign employes of the great mercantile houses represented in Manila have given to them as "home leave," there is a month's vacation each year, a regular holiday each month and all the Saint's days, and Spanish, French, English, German and American holidays. Not to observe a Saint's day in Manila is sinful, and every one holds such sinfulness in especial detestation. Figuring in all of the Saint's days, Sundays and general holidays, there are 129 days in each year when these people do not work.

Clerks earn from $2,500 to $5,000 a year, besides having lodgings found, a mess allowance, medical attendance and traveling expenses. In many cases their rooms are over the offices. They work from daylight till noon, rest for two or three hours and then work till five o'clock; but they have much freedom in choosing their hours and are hurried only on mail days.

There are many excellent bands in Manila, and open-air concerts are given every evening in fair weather. Theatrical companies, both native and foreign, play through the season. The Mestiza chorus girl is alluring. In the cathedral and the churches the music is always good, though it is startling to the newcomer to hear, as he will in some services, a Gloria from "Trovatore," the Credo with music from "Barbiere," and the Elevation from "Traviata."

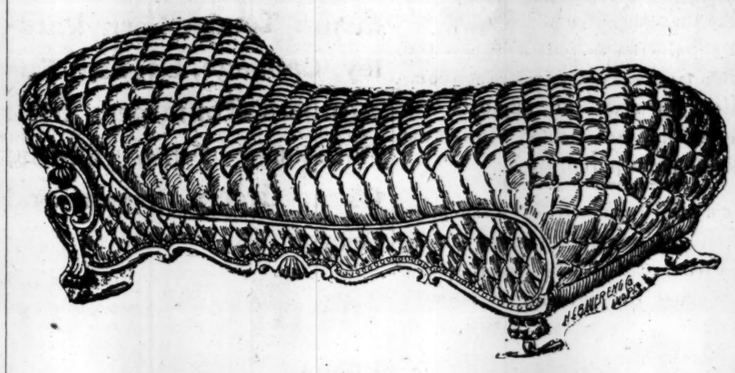
The Pasig River divides the capital in two—Manila proper and Binondo. It flows west from Laguna, the lake fifteen miles away, and is navigable for launches. Looking up stream from the Puenta de Espana to the point where the channel recently has been choked with wreckage one sees on the right, the north bank, the mercantile houses, and on the left the Plaza de Magelland, named in honor of the discoverer of the islands. The government buildings and official residences and the principal fortifications are on the north side. Binondo is intersected with lagoons.

There should be good boating at Manila, but the residents go in more for other sports. They say there is either too much or too little wind for yachts and too much heat for rowing. The natives have swift dugout canoes, with bamboo outriggers running parallel to the hull on each side, which prevent an upset. They use a huge lateen sail of bamboo strips, and make tremendous speed on the Pasig and Laguna.

Varnish Your Oilcloth.

In putting down a new oilcloth, it will last twice as long if you give it a thin coat of varnish and let it dry well before using. A little milk in tepid water is excellent to wipe oilcoths or painted floors. Especially bad spots may be removed by rubbing a little sapolio on a cloth and wiping off immediately.

Couches



Probably here is being displayed one of the finest line of couches in the city. They are in leather, pantasile and velours. In fact everything that is admirable in couches. You have only to see them and hear the prices to know that you buy for less here than elsewhere. No big salaried officers to pay here. My business is conducted on a money-saving basis, which means immense values for little money. While in the store ask to see Morris chairs, Rockers, Iron Beds and Felt Mattresses.

DEMOCRATS SHOULD KEEP WORKING.

There should not be any relaxation at all by a single Democrat in the campaign for the amendment. This is a life and death struggle for North Carolina, and lovers of the Old North State should not take repose while the fight is being waged. The amendment must be carried by so overwhelming a majority that no quibbling shall ever afterwards be heard.

The desperation of the fusionists is beginning to know no bounds. With the failure to disrupt the Democratic party by every falsehood known, they were enraged, and their rage increased as they saw the Democrats in solid line when the campaign had gotten under way good and the mists had been cleared away. But this was nothing compared with their chagrin and disappointment when they beheld the beginning of a large exodus from their ranks of the best and most honorable men of their party. The Populists as a party have deserted them, and many of the best Republicans are doing so every day. Let Democrats keep up the work of persuasion, so that by August the second, there will be few white men in line on the side of negro corruption.

The Telegram does not see why there should not be a discussion of a question that was thought to be important enough to force upon the voters of the whole county. If it is important enough to vote upon it is important enough to discuss, provided that the discussion is kept in proper bounds and is conducted upon a fair plane. The columns of the Telegram will therefore be open for communications from both sides of the dispensary subject. And in order that the discussion may be carried on in a way perfectly fair to both sides, we shall publish only such articles as are signed by the writer's real name. Say what you please, gentlemen, but say it over your own signatures.

The news from South Africa is rather disconcerting. Here we all were about to lose interest in the Boers, supposing that their undoing had been complete, and that Lord Roberts was merely settling down to do such garrison work as was needed, and would soon be able to turn loose a large part of his immense army for English use elsewhere. But instead of all this, the Boers seem to be as ready to fight as ever, have captured an important point within eighteen miles of Pretoria, and are said to be preparing for an effort to retake Pretoria. The Boer is a long winded citizen.

It is noteworthy that both of the men who have been the Populist candidates for Governor are now supporting the constitutional amendment, Dr. W. P. Exum, of Goldsboro, and Maj. W. A. Guthrie, of Durham, who is the Bryan elector for this district. Not only are these in line for the amendment, but many other former Populist nominees of less note. It is gratifying that when the party went to pieces, the Democrats got all that was worth having.

Some two or three days ago the news was sent out from New York that a plot had been going on there between some Cubans and Spaniards having for its object the assassination of President McKinley. Nothing much has been heard of it, no doubt from the fact that the World gave the alleged rews. Beside that a Cuban and Spanish team are rather a strange combination for such an exploit. The President has not denied himself the use of his front porch, either.

It may not be much of a surprise that no really reliable news can be gotten from China, when we recollect that in times of excitement it is very difficult to get accurate information from nearby neighbo s. During the fire at Winson yesterday there were half a dozen incorrect and more or less alarming reports current in Greensboro. And Winston is only 28 miles away, with two telegraph lines and a telephone connecting us.

The recent announcements that four large new business buildings will soon be in course of erection on Elm street, are but another strong evidence that Greensboro is on her continued upward march.

Our good brother Boone, of the Waynesville Courier, is, we are glad to learn, very much improved in health. For some time he has been writing double column poetry. This week he has dropped down to single column measure.

DEATH OF MRS. PLEASANTS.

Passed Away in Asheville, Where She Had Gone on a Visit.

Mrs. A. L. Pleasants, who resided on Edgeworth street, died in Asheville this morning at 11 o'clock. She left Greensboro for Asheville on a visit last Friday morning, and was unwell at the time, but no one thought serious or fatal illness would follow. The remains will reach here tomorrow at 12:23. The funeral will take place some time during the afternoon.

Mrs. Pleasants was a most estimable Christian woman and was held in the highest esteem by all who ever formed her acquaintance. She was a member of West Washington Street Baptist church.

The deceased leaves a son and four daughters, two of whom are married.

Lieut. Ben Tillman, Jr., Has Been Ordered to China.

Charleston News and Courier.

Within the next twenty days another brave South Carolina soldier will be fighting upon Chinese soil. An order was recently issued moving one of the companies of the Seventh Infantry, of which Lieut. Ben Tillman, Jr., is ranking lieutenant, from Alaska to China.

Lieutenant Tillman was graduated at the Citadel Academy only a few years ago. Shortly afterwards he was commissioned second lieutenant and fought through the Spanish war. When peace was declared the young officer was transferred to Alaska, and placed in charge of a company at a little town known as Rampart City. He has spent the last two years on the Yukon and the orders for a change came, no doubt, more as a relish than anything else.

Lieutenant Tillman is well known in this State. He is a brother to Colonel James Tillman and a nephew of the senior Senator from South Carolina. Four years of his life were spent in Charleston, and he left many warm friends here. At the time of his graduation he ranked as second captain in the corps of cadets.

"Citizen" and "Working Man" Answered.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

There appeared in yesterday's Record anonymous communications from "Citizen" and "Working Man," still harping on the financial statement of the dispensary. As the Record has closed its columns to all discussion of the subject, we must ask you to give us room to answer the attack made by "Citizen" and "Working Man," whoever they may be. We have this to say, that if "Citizen" and "Working Man" will come from under cover and let it be known who they are, we will show them through the dispensary books and assist them in ascertaining such information as they want from records which they well know are open at all times to the inspection of any and every body.

We haue made up our statements in the usual form, and we cannot help it if certain critics do not know enough about every day business transactions to be struck dumb with amazement at $1700 00 "bills payable" with a stock on hand of $400.00 to offset it. We repeat that no business man who has any respect for his business reputation can be found to support over his own signature this current criticism of our financial statement.

It is not surprising that men cannot understand figures who insist that the item of $500.00 tax for the twelve months from July 1, 1900, to July 1, 1901, ought to have been included in a financial exhibit for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1900.

"Citizen" and "Working Man" blow hot and cold at the same time. They complain that the dispensary has made too much money and in the next breath charge that we have been extravagant and have made too little. To show how hard put to it they are for argument, they say that the salary of the dispensary board attorney is excessive. We are paying our attorney $300.00 per annum. No reputable attorney can be found who would undertake the legal work done for the dispensary during the last twelve months for less than twice the amount paid Mr. Wilson, and he would not have undertaken it for $300.00 if he had known what was before him. These people ought not to object to paying the dispensary attorney $300.00 a year, when they are claiming that dispensary cases occupy something less than the entire time of our Superior Court. "Citizen" and "Working Man" have evidently made up their minds to refuse to understand anything.

HIS RIGHT TO WORK.

A Millionaire Who Runs His Own Elevator.

There is a millionaire in San Francisco who runs an elevator every day as industriously as though he belonged to a cage-operator's union instead of a capitalists' club.

It is something decidedly out of the common, says the San Francisco Examiner, to see a thousand-dollar bediamonded hand controlling the lever of an elevator, and to know that the man who opens the door of the cage for you could draw a negotiable check for $100,000 as easily as you could step in of out of his presence. Nor is it at all usual for elevator passengers to have their eyes dazzled by a diamond worth $1,600 blazing at them from a cage-operator's shirt.

But notwithstanding this capitalist's strict attention to business and the brilliancy of his jewels he could never get a job in any hotel of his own. Nobody in need of an elevator man would consider him seriously for an instant should he apply for employment. Yet he is an excellent mechanic and does not read yellow-papered novels while on duty.

What would be the use of lifting 200 pounds of man each trip when a fifty-pound boy could do the work without wear and tear on the basement machinery not to mention the unnecessary fraying of wire cables?

A representative of the Examiner found William B. Bradbury in the cage of the elevator at his Hotel Bradbury rushing it up and down the shaft as fast as electricity could send it. But Mr. Bradbury would not talk. He was busy running his hotel and his elevator, he said, and besides it wasn't any business of the newspapers, anyhow. Leaving the elevator he slammed the door and disappeared in his private office.

But Mr. Bradbury is a man of moods. In subsequent interviews he good-naturedly explained that he works because he wants to. He has worked all his life long, he says, and has a right to keep on working. Asked for the names of other pioneer millionaires who work, he said there are none, because they are all dead. Then he recalled the names of some of them—Fair, Flood, O'Brien, Stanford, Crocker, Hopkins, Sharon, Ralston, Sutro and Blythe.

"A man's got to work to live," said he. "That's what bone and muscle are given us for. When you shut down your engine your boiler is going to burst.

"How to get rich? That is just as easy, mind you. All you have to do is to center your mind on it. Give up everything else. Give up friends, children, peace and comfort. Pleasure? Take it seeing the dollars come in. There is a fierce joy of conquest that you feel over each one."

Millionaire Bradbury talks like a miser, but his deeds are those of a philanthropist, for he gives away dollars by the thousand to charity, and asks those benefited that nothing be said about it.

Civis Says That the Gentlemen Who are so Solicitous About the Church Would Not Feel at Home in One.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

The excruciating mental agony exhibited by some of the anti-dispensaryites while contemplating the total moral depravity of the ministers and church-going citizens of Greensboro in advocating one dispensary rather than nine gin mills, is, to put it mildly, sublimely absurd and hilariously comical.

Truth compels us to say that among the Anties are some who are conscientiously opposed to the dispensary. Some because it does not go far enough; others, it would seem in their opinion, to make them responsible for sale of liqours. With these good people we have no quarrel. We think their hearts are much better than their logic. Nor is the language below intended to apply to them. Leaving out this small c ass, and some others who profess to believe that the business interests of Greensboro are hurt by the dispensary, who are these others who seem to have apppointed themselves a special committee to see to it that the morals of the Church people who dare to differ with them, shall receive no detriment? Are they specially prepared by education and training to give lectures on the science of morals? In what theological seminary or school of morals did they get their diploma? Do you find them regular in their attendance at any of the churches? Is it not a fact that these self-constituted censors morum are conspicuously absent from all religious exercises? Would not most of them feel as much out of place in a church or prayer-meeting as a fish in a bucket of dry sand or a Jersey bull in a china shop? And yet these men are weeping Jeremiahs and are clothed in sack cloth and ashes at the bad condition of the church, especially since the closing of of the gin mills.

Is it not true that many of these Jeremiahs have rubicund nasal protuberances—made so by too frequent bending of the pregnant hinges of their elboes while gazing the while at the quiet working stars, as the red liquor rapidly disappears from human vision? These are the men who jeer and scoff at better men than themselves, who dare to think that the re-opening of the drink hells or gin mills of Greensboro for the young men of the county and town to take their first lessons in the drink habit would be detrimental to the morals of both town and county. Pirates Still in Canton.

A daring raid by a body of pirates on one of the Canton jails for the purpose of releasing one of their comrades, who was lying there under sentence of death, was made at the end of October, but the details were suppressed by the local authorities. A band of about eighty pirates attacked the jail and overpowered the warders. They then liberated their comrade and eleven other bandits who were also under sentence of death, and fought their way back to their boats, killing a number of the city trained bands who were called out to intercept them. During the running fight two of the pirates were killed, but the rest got away. The Empress Dowager, on receiving the news of this exploit, though some of the details were concealed from her and from the Viceroy, cashiered the governor of the jail and ordered an inquiry to ascertain whether he was in collusion with the pirates. She also ordered the trial of the local magistrate who was responsible for the security of the prison, and gave him the usual period of three months within which to recapture the liberated criminals and the pirates who released them.—London Times.

Masculine Observation.

When a woman refuses a man she most always insinuates that he knows she is so weak that he ought not to urge her.

It is just as easy to fall in love with a rich girl as it is with a poor one, and it's a lot easier to fall out of love with a poor girl than it is with a rich one.

The reason why women fight so at bargain sales isn't because they want a bargain themselves, but because they are afraid some other woman will get it instead.

Col. Morehead's Reply to Pritchard.

Col. James T. Morehead has a communication in the Greensboro Telegram of interest. It is historically interesting, and exhibits the ignorance of Jeter Pritchard, who is a great man among the ignorant radicals as Marion Butler, the full-fledged blatherskite, is a great authority around ignorant Populists. They think him a modern edition of Solomon, the son of David, and that all wisdom and all law will die with him. What a time of magnificent mediocrities this is. Each fellow thinks—"How we apples swim." But it is with them as Robinson said to Moses—"We are gnawing our last bone now."

Col. Morehead says:

"The Senator is also reported to have said (I have no doubt he was correct in the assertion) that because of the refusal of North Carolina and other States to ratify the fourteenth (Howard) amendment, the United States imposed upon the country the fifteenth amendment."

That was the deliberate, devilish, malicious act of the Republican party that has lived on hate since the first reptile was cradled. The fellows who did the damning deed have gone to their places with some few exception. The evil they did "lives after them" Col. Morehead calls their acts rightly as "unpardonable diabolism." Their successors—the descendants, in the present Congress -- "including Senator Pritchard, have said by their votes in Congress, in prescribiug qualifications for suffrage in our newly acquired possessions, including Cuba, that the negro is not to be trusted with unqualified right of suffrage." Well put.

Col. M. is correct in saying that today North Carolina would refuse to ratify the Howard (fourteenth) amendment. It has convincing proof of the stupendous blunder and great crime of the amendment when adopted. He does not think that a State in the Union would ratify it "if the clause referring to the debts of the United States and the Confederate States were stricken out of it."

There is so much in the contribution of Col. Morehead that is instructive at this time that we reserve some other extracts for another day. We thus show our appreciation of the value of what he has written. All who study men know how treacherous is memory and how soon the people forget important occurrences. Some North Carolina Republican is reported as saying that the people do not remember longer than two years. Upon that Jeter Pritchard and his co-conspirators are building their plans and hopes. Ignorance is a great aid to them. Illiteracy is a powerful lever in their hands.

WALLS OF THE CANAL PIERCED.

The Chinese Idea is to Inundate the Country and Hamper the Advance on Pekin.

Berlin, July 12.—It is semi-officially stated that Count Von Bulow, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, has addressed a circular to the German Federal governments, in which, after reviewing recent events in China, he says: "The latest developments in the military situation is the piercing by the Chinese of the Imperial Canal, near Tien-Tsin, for the purpose of inundating the country, and thus hampering any advance upon Pekin from the south, while great masses of hostile Chinese are pressing on from the north and east. Our military forces, consisting of eight battalions of infantry, three squadrons of cavalry, and four batteries, will enable us to participate in the military action in a manner corresponding with Germany's political importance. By the recent events in China, the successful German mission operations there, the flourishing German trade and economical enterprises are menanced. Our moral and military interests we must protect. Our aim is the restoration of security for persons and property, freedom of action for German subjects in China, the rescue of the foreigners beleaguered in Pekin, the re-establishment of security and regular conditions under a properly organized Chinese government and reparation and satisfaction for outrages committed. We desire no partition of China and seek no special advantages.

The imperial government is imbued with the conviction that the maintenance of the agreement between the powers is a primary condition for the restoration of peace and order in China."

SLAIN IN GREAT BATTLES.

Loss of Life Not Heavy In the Transvaal War

A RUNNING COMPARISON

Kitchener Destroyed 17,000 Human Souls In a Day—A Comparison of the Fiercest Battles of the World—The Matter of Marksmanship.

In proportion to the number of men engaged upon both sides there have been practically no marked losses of life in the Transvaal campaign, says the Chicago Times-Herald. The forces of England in South Africa are rapidly approaching 200,000 in number. The highest estimate placed upon the size of the Transvaal army is 89,000. Englishmen and Boers have confronted each other in battle since October 12. The number of English killed, wounded and missing or taken prisoners does not yet exceed 10,000. In all probability, owing to their intrenched positions and mountain embattlements which surround them, the Boers have not lost over two-thirds this number. It is fair to suppose that the total losses on both sides in 120 days of fierce campaigning do not exceed 17,000 men. The killed on both sides do not number 1,500. This is a merciful war so far as taking human life is concerned, just as all war is beneficial in its destruction of waste forces and vitalizing power upon the best which survives. The words "carnage" and "slaughter" have no real place so far in the Transvaal fighting. Why, Kitchener, on one day alone—September 2, 1898—destroyed at Omdurman, 17,000 dervishes—miserable, ignorant fanatics, who thought they had a right to live. That is slaughter.

Let us see how men killed each other in the past when firearms were not modern or did not exist, and when the opportunity to kill in battle was much greater than it is at the present time. Edward III and Philip VI tilted with each other at Crecy August 26, 1346, and the killed and wounded and prisoners amounted in all to 42,000 men. The English, although victorious, lost 12,000. This was right royal fighting and would have given war correspondents remarkable material for bloody despatches. At Hohenlinden December 3, 1800, the French loss was approximately 9,000, while the Austrians, in killed and wounded, lost 8,000 and 12,000 prisoners were taken. Thus the killed and wounded of that one day equaled the total losses in the Transvaal war of both sides in 120 days. One might infer that the marksmanship of 1899 and 1900 was of poor quality. This is not true. The fact is that armies meet less in hand-to-hand conflicts to-day than ever before. At Marengo, June 14, 1800, the French loss was 7,000 and the Austrian loss between 10,000 and 12,000, or 19,000 in all, which figures for a single twenty-four hours of fighting make the battling at the Tugela and Modder rivers seem like a skirmish. But greater carnage than this has been recorded. At Chancellorsville, May 2, 3 and 4, 1863, the Union loss was 16,030 the Confederate loss 12,281. In other words 28,300 men were put out of active service in three days. At Chickamauga, September 19 and 20, 1863, the Union loss was 15,851 and the Confederate loss 17,894, an average of about 17,000 a day. Still a human life is of more value in 1900 than it was in 1863. The work value of a man is greater to-day than it was then, and it is said to be a law of the Fates that as work value increases the mortality wrought in warfare decreases. Which may or may not be so.

July 1, 2 and 3, 1863, at Gettysburg, the Union loss was, killed 2,834, wounded 13,709, missing 6,634, and the Confederate loss 21,621, so that there was an average loss per day on that battlefield of 17,000 men. At Antietam September 17, 1862, the Union loss was 12,469, Confederate loss 9,000 to 12,000, or a total of at least 21,500. The second Bull Run was fought on August 29 and 30, 1862. The Union forces lost 15,000 men and the Confederates 8,400. In the battle of the Wilderness, May 5 and 6, 1864, the Union side was crippled by the loss of 18,000 men and the Confederate by a loss of 11,000 men. The Germans and French did equally as well at Mars-la-Tour August 16, 1870. The German loss in killed and wounded was 16,000. The French loss in killed, wounded and prisoners was 17,000. One regiment lost 49 officers and 1,736 men, but this regimental loss does not compare with the Union loss at the time of the first discharge of the Confederate batteries and musketry at the battle of the Wilderness, when it is estimated that in five minutes 5,000 Union soldiers were wounded and killed. Gravelotte, August 18, 1870, was a carnage to be remembered. The Germans left upon the field 20,159 dead or wounded men. The French lost between 12,000 and 15,000. Plevna, in the snows of the Bulgarian mountains, was a battlefield in July, 1877, where the mountain side ran streams of blood, and Turk and Muscovite died with their set teeth fixed in each other's flesh. The total Russian losses in ten days' fighting were 32,000. The Turkish losses have never been accurately known. They have been estimated at 20,000.

Last but not least of the fierce battles of the world where life was treated as a bauble comes Waterloo, June 18, 1815. The loss of the English and Prussians was 22,000 and of the French 35,000. Wellington's army could not have survived the ravishes of the French guns but for the support of the allies, and England as an Empire has never come so near annihilation on the field of battle as it did at Waterloo.

Rosa Bonheur's Monument.

The Rosa Bonheur monument at Fontainebleau will be modeled under the direction of her brother Isidore. It will consist of a bull in bronze, enlarged from a model made by Rosa Bonheur herself. One side of the pedestal will bear a bronze bas-relief of "The Horse Fair," and the panel on the other side will contain a group of cattle from another of her paintings. At the rear end of he pedestral an upright panel will exhibit the bas-relief of a stag, and at the front end there will be a bronze medallion portrait of the artist and the inscription.

AN AERIAL FLIGHT.

Extraordinary Adventure of an Italian Peasant Woman.

Teresa Falciola, an Italian peasant woman met recently with an extraordinary adventure. Near her home, in the village of Quarna, which nestles in a spacious valley, is a high and wooded mountain, and there it was her custom to go several times a week for the purpose of collecting firewood. To bring this wood down from the precipitous mountain to her cottage was quite an arduous task. Therefore, she sent it down by means of a strong metal wire, stretched from the valley up to the mountain top.

A few weeks ago she and her little daughters ascended the mountain, and, after gathering three goodly bundles of wood prepared to send them down. Just, however, as the mother had fastened the first bundle to the wire, and had launched it on its downward course, her wedding ring became caught in the rope with which the bundle was tied, and in a flash she was carried off her feet and swept downward into the valley. Half paralized with fear, her little daughters watched her as she sped from their sight with amazing swiftness, and then they ran down the mountain, fully expecting to find her lying dead at the end of the wire.

And their fear was quite natural, since the mountain top from which their mother had been torn is eight hundred yards above the valley. Fortunately, their fears proved to be groundless. They found their mother entirely uninjured. Yet, miraculous, indeed, was it that her life had not been crushed out of her at the end of her perilous descent. It would have been if her fall had not been broken before she reached the earth by some friendly branches. The bundle of wood, too, was in some measure a bulwark against the shock.

There are five "tasters" in the Sultan's kitchen at Constantinople. They taste every dish before it is put before their royal master.

Dogs That Pilot Their Fellows to a Haven of Comfort.

The fact that dogs have a way of communicating news to one another was demonstrated to me in a very singular and amusing fashion about two years ago.

It was in South Georgia, where as yet little provision is made for the comfort of domestic animals, where during cold wind-swept nights shelterless cows and mules wander about restlessly, where chickens and turkeys roosting on leafless trees fill the sharp air with their plaintive voices, where dogs and other domestic animals must seek their own night quarters as best they can.

One of those bitter cold nights, such as a cold wave often brings, I heard at our front door the unmistakable sounds of scratching and whining and found, upon opening, two of my little neighboring friends, a pug and a little terrier asking admission to all appearances. In face of the cruel cold it was granted them and they were welcome to share the comfortable quarters of my own two dogs.

In the morning they took their departure. But how great was my astonishment to see them return the following cold evening and accompanied by a large Irish setter who likewise wagged admission to the warm quarters he seemed to have knowledge of.

If there were any doubts as to whether these hospitable night lodgings were discussed among the shelterless dogs of the neighborhood these doubts were removed on the third night, when my three tramps returned, their number increased by another pug and an old pointer. The mute but eloquent language of their wagging tails, the humble appeal in their sincere eyes were certainly amusing.

With my two pets and these five tramps I had now seven dogs stretched out comfortably before my dining-room grate. But with their irreproachable behavior and their many ingratiating ways they had insured for themselves a welcome at our house as long as the cold spell lasted whch was nearly a week. As soon as the cold subsided they returned no more.

Is not this good evidence of the power of communication among our speechless friends.—Our Dumb Animals.

He Divided Equally.

"Robbie, did you divide the orange in equal parts between your little friend and yourself?"

"Yes'm; I gave him all the outside and took all the inside."

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and oth-aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to moke you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. For sale by Grissom & Fordham.

WE ARE ORIGINATORS:

Not Imitators!

White Delivery Wagons have been a distinguishing mark of the Greensboro Steam Laundry for a number of years. Our customers have learned to "look out for the white wagons."

Competitors have seen fit to imitate our wagons, therefore we deem it wise to make a change.

Our wagons are now in the shop. About May 1st they will come out green, our forme color. In the mean time would respectfullly request our friends and patrons ta BEWARE of the white laundry wagons and see to it that the right driver gets the bundle. To avoid any possible confusion, in future our wagons will be lettered.
